PREFATORY NOTES

THIS FAMILY TREE—HOW IT CAME TO BE

Interest in one's ancestors marks all normal humans. This interest may take one of two different trails of investigation, the first, the broad or generic, leading towards the origin of the race; the second, the specific or narrow, tracing the individual lines through the marriages and births of successive generations, as far and as thoroughly as the skill, patience and means of the investigator, and as the accessibility and the trustworthiness of the records may permit.

The present compilations of ancestral links is the outgrowth of a gradually increasing interest on the part of the compiler. The first distinct impetus toward this lineal record of his father and mother came about 1880 when he caught his first sight of the monumental work then in the possession of his cousin, Loring Osborn, of Altamont (Knowersville), New York, the full title and description of which reads as follows:

The Whitney family of Connecticut, and its affiliations; being an attempt to trace the descendants, as well in the female as in the male lines, of Henry Whitney, from 1649 to 1878; to which is prefixed some account of the Whitneys of England. By S. Whitney Phoenix, New York, Privately printed (Bradford Press), 1878. 3 volumes, folded genealogical tables, 28 cm, Paged continuously. Edition 500 copies 4to 10 copies folio.

A second distinct stimulus to a continuation of this endeavor was the happening upon a copy of another large work: American family antiquity, being an account of the origin and progress of American families, traced from their progenitors in this country, connected with their history abroad. By Albert Welles, New York Society library, 1880-81. 3 volumes, plates, portraits, photographs, colored coats of arms. 34 cm. Contents. Vol. 1, Washington, Barron, Buell, Cary, Page, Frost, Stokes, Dunbar, Grace. Vol. 2, Kip. Cooke. Lyon, Kendall, Flower, Starin, Connor, Mortimer. Vol. 3, Snow, Wheeler, Martin, Conover, Fish, Waterbury, Babcock.

In the former of these two extensive genealogies my father's ancestry is traced in one of the female lines of Henry Whitney of Connecticut, through the marriage of Rachel Keeler to David Osborn; and in the latter my mother's descent from the Flower family is given.

An added help was the permission to consult in quite recent years the painstaking written records of the Flower and the Allen families made by Miss Lillian L. Reed, my cousin, of Washington, D. C.

Others who have cooperated in supplying data are four of my nieces, Mrs. John A. Stillwell of Berkeley, California, Mrs. Alfred A. Berggren, of Glyndon, Minnesota, Miss Louise E. Snyder of Minneapolis, Minnesota, and Miss Katherine Osborn of Los Angeles, California, the last named having also put the entire work into typewriting for the use of the printer. Repeated courtesies from Mr. Hugh A. Morrison of the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., have facilitated my researches in that palace of letters.

OSBORN

1. Captain Richard Osborn, one of the first settlers of Hingham, Mass., had a lot assigned him there in September, 1635; soon removed to Connecticut; was a soldier in the Pequot war in May, 1637; was in New Haven before 1640; removed in 1653 to Fairfield, Conn., where he had in 1671 a grant of land for his share in the Pequot fight; his latter days were probably passed at East Chester, N. Y.

2. David Osborn, son of Captain Richard, married Abigail Pinckney, of Fairfield; died at East Chester, N. Y., 1679.

3. Richard Osborn, son of David, married Sarah - - .

4. David Osborn, farmer, son of Richard, born November 1700, probably at East Chester; married about 1726 Raphel Keeler, who was born in Norwalk, Conn., Oct. 4, 1706. She was a descendant of the Whitney family of Connecticut of which the following is a record:

(1) Henry Whitney, born in England probably about 1620. The earliest record of him is Oct. 8, 1649, in buying land in Long Island. (2) His son John Whitney, born probably about 1644, married Elizabeth Smith, March 17, 1674-5. (3) Elizabeth Whitney, fourth child of John and Elizabeth Whitney, born at Norwalk, Conn., about 1684, married Joseph Keeler, a carpenter, son of Samuel and Sarah Keeler.

Of Joseph Keeler we have this interesting account: He was the son of Samuel and Sarah (St. John) Keeler, grandson of Ralph Keeler and of Mark and Elizabeth (Stanley) St. John, and great grandson of Matthias St. John and Timothy Stanley. He was born at Norwalk about 1683; he and his wife settled in Ridgefield, Conn., where we find early mention of him: "At a Town Meeting held in Ridgefield Dec. 27, 1713 - - it was voted by ye Majority yt Joseph Keeler shall have two shilling as money pr day for making and mending conveniences for ye setting of Minister and people at ye house of meeting and yt he shall be allowed for Nails and what Board will not do for after service." He was elected lister 19 Dec. 1716; sealer of weights and measures 8 Dec. 1718, 21 Dec. 1721, 13 Dec. 1725, and 27 Dec. 1727; townsman 21 Dec. 1719, and 20 Dec. 1722; surveyor 21 Dec. 1721; toler 13 Dec. 1725; a member of the "Committee to run and finish ye Dividend Line between Norwalk and Ridgefield according to agreement with Norwalk" 27 Dec. 1725, and 5 Sept. 1726 one of "a Committee for the Town for the takeing care of, and carrying on the work of the meeting house by any necessary bargains, or laying out of the severall Sums and Taxes which from time to time shall be raised therefore, and that as their prudence and best discretion shall direct them, and that till the meeting house be well compleated and finished."

The record of David Osborn's birth was made at Ridgefield after the family moved there in 1713. The record of his marriage does not appear, but the marriage is proved by a deed given to his wife by her father, May 9, 1738, "for and in consideration of that Love and Good will which I have and do bear unto my son-in-law, David Osborn of said Ridgfield," and by one given April 14, 1742, "for and in consideration of that Paternal Love and fatherly respect we I have and do bear unto David Osborn and Rachel Osborn, my children."

They dwelt in Ridgefield until after 1742, and finally settled at Starrs Plain in Danbury where he died about the beginning of 1750. She was appointed administratrix Feb. 5, 1749-50, the inventory, dated March 1, 1749-50, was presented by her May 2, 1750, and the estate was finally distributed April 6, 1758, she taking her third as "Rachel the now wife of Mr. Lemuel Morehouse, being the late widow and Relict of the sd Deceised." She married (2d) June 6, 1750, at Ridgefield, Lemuel Morehouse. No record of their death has been found. His (Morehouse's) former wife Mary, who died in Ridgefield Nov. 1, 1749, bore him nine children, one of whom married his stepson, Aaron Osborn.

5. Moses Osborn, son of David, born at Ridgefield, Conn., Dec. 22 or 23, 1737, sixth child, married Sarah White, daughter of Israel White of Danbury, where they settled. The date and place of her death do not appear. He was a tailor, a member of the Church of England, professed to be conscientiously opposed to bearing arms and, after the burning of Danbury, took shelter with the British on Long Island. His estate of £35 was confiscated by the State, and Dr. Sallu Pell appointed as its administrator May 1, 1781, but it failed to satisfy the creditors, leaving nothing for the State. At the close of the war he declined the benefit of the royal grant of lands in Nova Scotia, returned to Danbury, and there passed the rest of his days. He married (2d) Elvira Wilson, widow of - - Bailey, and they were communicants Feb. 1, 1812, in St. John's Church, Danbury, the records of which make the date of his death Sept. 29, 1824, while his gravestone in the old Episcopal Cemetery says "31 Oct. 1824, aet. 84" though his age was really almost 87 years. It is said that his widow went to live with a son by her former husband in Weston, Conn., and died there.

6. Elias Osborn, son of Moses, born at Danbury, Conn., March 13, 1771; was a tanner and currier, merchant and finally a farmer; went when 21 years old to Durham, N. Y., where he married April 3, 1796, Betsey Thorp,* born Sept. 29, 1778, daughter of Aaron Thorp of Durham. They dwelt in Durham until 1806; then settled in Rensselaerville, N. Y.; moved in 1812 to Cooperstown, N. Y., where they lived until March, 1841; then returned to Rensselaerville and settled on a farm, where she died Sept. 1, 1838. She was buried in Oak Hill

*Efforts to trace the Thorp line yielded results so meager that it has been omitted altogether.

Cemetery. He married (2d) June 20, 1842, Susan, widow of Charles Reed of Durham. Elias died at Durham April 2, 1848, and was buried in Oak Hill Cemetery. She died at Otego, N. Y., in 1869. His dwelling house in Oak Hill was burned about 1800, his family barely escaping with their lives. He kept a store at Oak Hill, as well as on his farm in Rensselaerville, about three miles from Oak Hill. He also manufactured potash. The children of Elias and Betsey Thorp Osborn were:

7. Maria, born in Durham, N. Y., May 31, 1797, died in infancy.

7. William, born in Durham, Feb. 6, 1799, tailor and clothier, married Sarah Ann Simons, and (2d) Ann Amelia Hotchkiss.

Alonzo Williams Kinsley Jr., died April 30, 1820, aged 11 mos. 25 days) who died childless. He (Ransom) married (2d) Amanda Allen, April 24, 1836, who was born Feb. 17, 1815, at Oak Hill, the daughter of Samuel Seabury and Harriet Flower Allen. He died at Oak Hill, May 6, 1853, and was buried in the cemetery there. She died Aug. 27, 1903, at Eaton Rapids, Mich.
